G. A. VICTORIOUS OVER NORWAY & MEXICO

GOULD 40—NORWAY 35
Both the Varsity and the J. V. teams came from behind last Friday at Norway to take thrilling victories.

In the opener, the J. V.'s, with Paul Fossett leading the way with 12 points, came from behind a 17-20 deficit at the half to win in a thrilling finish 37-36. Dave Jordan followed closely with 11 points. Emery and Murphy both played bang-up ball and look like future varsity prospects. Ed Hastings played steady ball and came through with one of his infrequent baskets; but a most timely one.

The Gould Varsity made even a greater "come back" as at one time in the third period they trailed by 11 points. They began picking up before the period was over and had cut the lead to six points, 22-27, as the final stanza started. They pressed hard from here on and the Norway club finally fell apart as the winners chalked up a 13-2 period to go out front and win 40 to 35 in the last few minutes of the game.

"Hoby" Lowell led the way with 15 points, getting 7 out of 9 from the free-throw line. In the last 3 games, he has collected 25 free throws out of 30 chances. Agnese entered the scoring column again with 12 points, and handled most of the rebounds off the boards. Elwell, Blden and Bennett all performed well in this thriller that had the fans on their feet throughout the entire final period.

GOULD 48—MEXICO 36
Gould Academy played its finest ball of the year as it rudely upset a favored Pinto team to the tune of 48-36, on Tuesday evening. The Huskies again demonstrated that defense is a part of basketball, as they held the usually high-scoring visitors to a mere 12 points in the last half.

The entire Gould team played well, but Lowell was outstanding as he scored 21 points while holding Fraser to 13 Blden and Bennett had a tough assignment in taking care of the high-scoring Smith but they cut him down to 14 points.

The home team got away to a good lead in the first few minutes but lost it and were trailing 10-12 at the first period. With Lowell sinking 8 of his 21 points in the second period, the Huskies took the lead and were out front 25 to 21 at the half. Gould quickly increased the lead in the second half and were never headed.

The Gould J. V.'s came through again with a victory this time 27-25. Murphy was high point man with 9 while Borden led the Pinto underdogs with 7.

He was 44 years old.

At the time of his death he was a research consultant for Senator Jenner of Indiana. WORLD DAY OF PRAYER TO BE OBSERVED FEB. 9

World Day of Prayer will be observed the first Friday in Lent, Feb. 9, at three o'clock in the West Parish Church. Women of the Methodist Church, Locke Mills Church, and West Parish Church will join with Christian women in 83 countries the world over in corporate prayer for peace.

The service, sponsored by the United Council of Church Women, was first held in 1927 and has grown in interest and strength until there are well over 10,000 observances during the day and the combined offerings for the worldwide work of the Council in areas of need exceeds $200,000.

The brief worship is composed this year by German Christian women and consists of personal meditation, congregational prayers, and music in keeping with the theme, "Perfect Love Casts Out Fear." A cordial invitation is issued to all women of the community to join in this observance. WILTON HERE FRIDAY—LIVERMORE TUESDAY

Friday night, starting with a J. V. game at 7 o'clock the Wilton Academy team will be furnishing the opposition. The two J. V. teams have not met before, but the visitors are putting on a club that has many victories to its credit. The local underdogs are improving and a good game should be in the making.

The Husky Varsity has already lost a 33-45 game to the Wilton team and have great respect for the visitors' star player, Masterman. No team has been successful in stopping him this year. The local club, however, will be out there doing their best to even the count with their league rival, and a close hard-fought battle is anticipated.

The second place Livermore Falls team will be here Tuesday and again the Huskies will try to avenge a defeat suffered at Livermore some two weeks ago. Another great player, LaPoint, will be the man to bear watching in this contest. This will also be a double header with the Junior Varsity starting the action at 7 p. m.

PERKINS VALLEY 4-H CLUB

The Perkins Valley 4-H Club of South Waterford, which was the outstanding 4-H club in Oxford County from 1941-1944 inclusive, has reorganized for the first time since 1944 under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Emery Ryerson Jr., former members of the club.

At the first meeting, some 25 club members were present and the following slate of officers was elected for the club year. President, Janice Goss, Vice-President, Edith Cox, Secretary, Evelyn Bran, Treasurer, Elaine Thurlow, Color Bearer, Glenn Dustin.

The reorganization of the Perkins Valley club marks the reorganization of three former county plaque winners. The Co-Workers Club of West Sumner, now led by Mrs. Zelda Wing, won the plaque from 1937 to 1939, inclusive. Busy Workers of Canton, led by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Conant, winners in 1940 and from 1946 to 1950, in leave.

With the three above-mentioned clubs plus the clubs already organized, county club agent Jim Christie believes that this year's competition for the county plaque, which is given each year by the Advertiser Democrat of Norway to the high scoring 4-H club in the county, will be nothing less than a photo finish with each club trying to be very best for possession of the plaque.

There will be no Canterers held at the Community Room until after February, due to circumstances beyond our control.

While Mrs. Freeman is away call Mrs. Sadie Brooks, phone 64-4, for room reservations.

We wish to thank everyone for their very generous donations of time and money to replace the large window at the room, to those who gave wood and for all other help in any form, this past year. The Community Room Comm.

POLIO DRIVE SUCCESS—REPORT OVER $1200

At 7 o'clock sharp on Wednesday evening, Jan. 31, the busy mothers in Bethel began their "Mothers March on Polio." The mothers were led by the Bethel Fire Company followed by "Mush" and "Spec" with the loud speakers.

It was certainly a thrill, to see the porch lights go on—and on—which proved to the committee, and its workers, a community gesture of good will and generosity for the cause. As the busy mothers started the march on Main Street, they saw a large electric light bulb, attached to an extension cord in the window of Samantha Jodrey. As they approached her home she was in the window in her sick bed anxiously awaiting the mothers to collect her contributions. This was one example of the many, expressed in this Mothers' March. The mothers marched on in the ice and snow and at 8 o'clock they all came to the Legion Rooms with their bags and scrolls and delivered to the committee a total of $323.67.

As yet the reports are not fully completed, but we are glad to submit a report of approximately the amount received on this drive.

Boy Scouts Mark 41st Anniversary

Official poster marking the 41st birthday.

President Truman will greet 12 outstanding Boy Scouts in the White House on Feb. 6 opening the 41st anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. Boy Scout Week will be observed Feb. 6 to 12 in every part of the nation by more than 2,500,000 boys and adult leaders. "Strengthen Liberty" is the birthday theme.

During Boy Scout Week members of the organization will develop window displays and demonstrations on civil defense and conservation. Each member will inspect his home to make certain no hazards exist. Surveys and mobilizations will test Scout efficiency should emergency arise.

Since 1910 more than 17,500,000 boys and men have been identified with the Boy Scouts of America.

EVERY MAN'S BATTLE

John F. Bland, the author of the book "The Battle of the Mind," says that the most important battle in life is the battle of the mind. He says that the mind is the most powerful weapon we have, and that it is the only weapon that we can control. He says that we must learn to control our minds, and that we must learn to use our minds to our advantage.

There is one other battle that we must win, and that is the battle of the will. The will is the power that enables us to do what we want to do, even when we don't want to. It is the power that enables us to overcome our fears and our doubts, and to achieve our goals.

The Federal government is now planning to get the people into the habit of saving money by means of the "War Savings Bonds." These bonds are sold in many places, and they are a very easy way to save money.

IN SENATE, January 31, 1951, the House Committee on Education and Labor reported to the Senate a bill for private or special legislation to be enacted by the Senate after a hearing on the bill on Thursday, February 1, 1951, and that no other bills were received by the committee after a hearing on the bill on Thursday, February 1, 1951, except by unanimous consent on the bill on which it is reported, and it is further:

RESOLVED, That the Secretary of the Senate shall cause a copy of this order to be printed in all the daily and weekly papers of the State, commencing Thursday, January 31, 1951, and continuing up to and including Thursday, February 1, 1951, at 5 P. M.

THOMAS T. WATSON, Secretary of Senate

Lattle. The doctor, the educator, the free workman, the banker, the farmer, the manufacturer, the free citizen must each of them realize that no more battles can be fought and that wherever the attack is pressed all must fly to the defense.

That is one of the best and clearest statements on American Socialism that anyone has yet made. There is no isolated American in this ideological war. Each is part of the whole and the whole is part of the whole. We must all realize this, and we must all realize that the only way to win this war is to win the battle of the mind.

HOUSEHOLD WORKERS' SOCIAL SECURITY PLAN EXPLAINED

"Extension of social security coverage to household workers was enacted to help them, not to hand-leave them," emphasized John M. Beale, Manager of the Lewiston Field Office, Social Security Administration. Beale said that a few early reactions to the extension show that employers of domestics may not be recognizing the protection offered by inclusion in the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance system. The new provisions for domestic workers in private homes took effect January 1, 1951, registration of their employers is now under way.

"It seems clear that the Congress, when it passed the recent amendments to the Social Security Act, intended the domestic-worker provisions to do the most possible good with the least possible unproductive tax payments," Beale continued. He explained that the new provisions do not count household work that is only occasional or in very small amounts.

The worker must be paid at least $50 in cash in a quarter-year, and work on at least 24 days in that quarter or in the one before, in order for any reporting of wages and payment of tax to be necessary. Thus the woman who "comes in" to do the cleaning on only one day a week will not work on 24 different days during a quarter, and participation will not be available for her. Neither will the provisions help the high school girl who does "baby sitting" for a family for cash pay of less than $50 in the three months. In general, the rules select for coverage only those workers who make their living doing domestic work in homes where they are regular members of the household staff. There is no provision for choosing whether or not to be covered by the system; application of the $50-24 day test shows whether the work must be reported or is barred from inclusion.

This selective provision of the law precludes "nuisance reporting" of trivial wage amounts. Beyond this, the procedures and forms which have been worked out for reporting are remarkably simple. They are regarded as setting a new standard of consideration for the person who had to make a return to the government.

The Old-Age and Survivors Insurance system provides monthly cash payments to retired workers and certain of their dependents and to survivors of deceased workers. Employers of household workers are often in position to realize the advantages to their household workers of participation in the program. Many of these employees themselves are women working in occupations under the system in local woodworking shops and the like and have someone to keep house while they are at work. Despite this, Beale believes some such employers might look for ways of reducing cash pay, or number of days on which worked during a quarter-year in order to avoid the reporting obligation. These employers, it is felt, should be the first to think of the worker's side of the picture. They should realize that it is no more than fair that their domestic employees should gain the same protection by reason of household work that the employer himself acquires through work elsewhere.

Employers of household workers notify the collector of Internal Revenue that they need reporting forms by using the post card attached to the booklet "Do You Have a Maid?" This booklet is available at post offices, at the Internal Revenue Office, 103 Park Street, Lewiston, and at the Social Security Administration Field Office, 125 Main Street, Lewiston.

Persons who work only part of the year as employees in summer homes or cottages should also be aware of the conditions under which their work will count toward Old-Age and Survivors Insurance. They should also understand the requirements upon themselves for securing this credit. A leaflet explaining these matters is available at the Social Security Field office.

AIR FORCE STILL NEEDS APPLICANTS FOR AVIATION CADET TRAINING

S-Sgt. A. L. Shaw, commanding officer of the Rumford Army and Air Force Station states there has been a definite and sudden let-up in the number of young men applying for Aviation Cadet Pilot and Navigator Training. S-Sgt. Shaw said he believes this may be due to a misunderstanding on the part of the public of the recent freeze on enlistments in the United States Air Force.

This freeze affects only the enlistment of men with no prior service as Privates in the Air Force. It does not effect the enlistment of young men for Cadet Pilot or Navigator training. It also does not effect the enlistment in the Air Force of men who have prior service in any of the Armed Forces.

The Air Force is desirous of obtaining as many qualified young men as possible for Aviation Cadet Pilot and Navigator training. The qualifications are two years of college training, age 20 to 28, single and excellent physical condition. Interested young men may apply for this training through the Rumford Air and Air Force Recruiting Station located at 89 Exchange Street, Rumford.

A WORD TO WORK WITH

Today's word is ability. Webster's College, Home and Office Dictionary says of this word (in part): ability is the power to perform; skill to achieve; capability to carry out; physical or moral strength; wealth; means; talents. In the parable of the talents (Matt. 25), we read that a man traveling into a far country gave to his servants his goods, to every man according to his several ability. And in I Peter 4:11, "If any man minister, let him do it as of the ability which God giveth, that God may be glorified through Christ Jesus, to whom be praise and dominion forever and ever."

When considering the ability of the Western nations to check the tide of wrong concepts threatening to engulf the world, it is good to use for your dictionary the book so reverently called the Word of God. Using the inspired word with the conscious ability of spiritual understanding leads to the triumph of good in international relations, when "charity begins at home," and rests on God's ability.

WOODSTOCK'S POPULATION

According to the preliminary count of the Census Bureau the population of the Town of Woodstock is 956, the highest since 1870. Like many other small towns in Maine the population reached its highest in 1880, then declined steadily until 1920. Since then it has shown a small increase each decade. Woodstock was the tenth town of Oxford County in 1940, but the town of Porter made a larger gain in population during the past ten years and now becomes the tenth town of the county in size. —Ralph M. Bacon.

Like most little boys who take piano lessons, Edward Grieg never wanted to practice, but he did like to make up tunes. Grieg grew up to be the great composer of the famous "Peer Gynt Suite" for orchestra, and other important works. According to "Childcraft" books, he was born June 15, 1843.

ELECTRICAL TIPS FOR THE HOME

If You Are Bothered by Frequent Blowing of Fuses . . .

DO IT court danger by using pennies or over-size fuses to prevent interruption of the current. When a fuse blows, it's your warning that something definitely is wrong.

DO check to determine the cause. The trouble may be a faulty cord, more likely it's an overloaded circuit. If so, you'll need another circuit to make your wiring as efficient as your appliances.

Rebellion in the Kitchen

(Contributed)
What I have to say is primarily of interest to the ladies, for it has to do with shopping for groceries today. However, you men may be interested to a certain degree, as it concerns your pocketbooks and the contents therein.

Women—do you realize the power that is ours? If we should really organize our efforts, we could help cut the cost of living. How? Have you noticed that bread, the so-called Staff of Life from time immemorial, has increased in price? A penny or two you'll say. But that is the "insidious" manner in which prices go up. This week it may go up a penny or two. In a few months the price has become a habit, and then another boost can be effected without much stir from the customers. For time has a way of erasing memory, and only a minority will recall that six months or a year ago this or that article was several cents cheaper.

The "whew" type of price boost can be demonstrated by the common tomato. This week they may be 10c per package—next week 25c. Another more startling hike is that of green peppers. Perhaps you, like I, enjoy the special flavor given to common hash by the addition of a little ground up green pepper. Imagine my surprise last week when I picked up one pepper and was informed that the price had gone up to 79c per pound! That would make that single pepper cost approximately 19 cents as compared to a more normal cost of about 5 cents.

These are only a few examples. Now we say "O. K." We know food prices are at an all time high, but what can we do about it? The answer is—Boycott foods that are ridiculously dear. Food is somewhat like love. It spoils if persistently neglected.

If we could make an organized stand against high prices eventually we might win some sort of victory. And no matter how small it would be worth while. We wouldn't be hurting the farmer—his is not the tremendous profit. Nor does your grocer benefit too greatly by these price increases. The off hand of middle man is the culprit.

Food is a necessity, of course. But many food items that we have come to consider as common fare could be dropped from our lists with little effect on our nutrition. We have become a country with luxurious habits.

It is up to us to refuse to buy peppers at 79c per pound, tomatoes at 25c per package, steak at $1.12 per pound, and so on. If we declare "war" on such increased prices, in time its effects would be felt.

We may become tired of eating a diet of carrots or turnips or what have you, but let's count our pennies even at the cost of monotony. We may consider ourselves lucky to be able to eat any food in our homes without the fear of an invading enemy disturbing us.

You may not believe that such action carried out in one small town could bring results, but the smallest cog in any wheel plays an important part and its failure to respond in the expected manner eventually attracts notice.

Most of us have friends in this and other states. Why not tell them what we'd like to do? Get enough women angry and their buzzings can be heard across the continent.

The term "conservation," now being used predominantly as relating to natural resources, means, to keep from loss, decay, or injury; to supervise and protect; to preserve.

A duty dodged is like a debt unpaid. It is only deferred, and we must come back and settle the account at last. —Joseph Fort Newton happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

There is one thing about the powerful speech which Herbert Hoover made on December 20 on which everyone can agree—it was the fuse which set off the most comprehensive and searching debate on foreign policy which this country has seen in a long time. It inspired a tremendous flood of mail to members of Congress and other key government officials, and the great bulk of the writers, it is reliably reported from the capital, approved of all or most of the ex-President's premises.

Senator Taft, who is now really justifying his title of "Mr. Republican," followed this up with two major speeches—one on the floor of the Senate, the other before the National Press Club. Mr. Taft is not in 100 per cent accord with Mr. Hoover—they differ on the question of just how vital Europe is to the defense of this hemisphere—but he goes with him most of the way. Both men are for building up the air force and the navy to the limit, but they see no need for ground forces of the size desired by the administration. Both think that Europe has been derelict in looking out for her own military security. Both are convinced that we can't save the free world by ourselves. And Mr. Taft made one very compelling point in discussing the shipment of American supplies and troops to the Atlantic Pact powers. In effect, he said that one of two things will happen in Europe—either Russia will go to war or she will not. In the first event, he went on, the Kremlin will certainly not wait until a powerful force has been organized, trained and equipped to fight against her. She will move while Western Europe is virtually powerless. In the second event—that is, if Russia does not intend war—there is no need for mobilization on a vast level.

Be that as it may, the Hoover-Taft speeches undoubtedly forced Mr. Truman to make some changes in his State of the Union message. By implication, it was a reply to their position. The President spoke in very general terms for the most part—though he was unusually definite and forthright in his description of Russia's policies and intent—but he made his stand plain. Europe, he believes, is our bulwark. And, he said, the free European nations have made considerable progress toward building their defenses. This last, many think, was the weakest part of his speech. FARM AND HOME WEEK

Maine's 44th annual Farm and Home Week, April 2 to 5, is expected to draw some 5,000 people to the University of Maine campus at Orono, says Professor Maurice D. Jones, chairman. More than 20 state-wide organizations are cooperating in arranging an outstanding program. Dean of Agriculture, Arthur L. Deering will be the featured speaker at the opening session of Farm and Home Week on Monday evening, April 2. He spent four months in Europe last winter studying agricultural education in five Marshall plan nations and making recommendations for improvement.

necessary as they are, are quite a different thing from trained and equipped armies in the field.

At the moment—and, of course, barring more explosions in the world—the school which favors all-in mobilization in a rush is definitely in the minority. The principal spokesman for this is Governor Dewey, the titular head of the Republican Party. Dewey favors a military establishment even greater than that we had in the last war, and what amounts to a world-or-flight policy for everyone. But neither Congress, the Executive branch, nor the other Republican leaders, follow him in this. General Marshall, out of his wealth of experience as Chief of Staff in the last war, favors an orderly and gradual mobilization upon which, if necessary, a total effort can be based. He clearly fears the hurried creation of a great army before we have the facilities and supplies to properly train it. He also knows the dangers that would be implicit in building a huge military machine, and then having nothing for it to do. The public, he feels, would tire of the burden, and would go to the opposite extreme of demanding demobilization to the danger point.

On one thing all American spokesmen are agreed—there is to be no appeasement this time, no Munich. But, it must be said, that is not true of all Europe. Much remains to be done before we and our major allies will be as united in fact as we are in theory.

Unlike some folks who "haven't a leg to stand on," Daddy Longlegs always has a few to spare. According to "Childcraft" books, if a leg of this harmless creature is seized, he merely sheds it and scurries away on the remaining seven.
